MARQUEE TO BE RELIGHTED — The marquee projecting over the entrance to the Cliftona Theater will soon be flashing with bright-colored lights and will once again announce the names of Hollywood stars in current motion pictures. The "CLOSED SEE A GOOD MOVIE AT THE GRAND" letters will be removed as part of the $50,000 improvement.

Remodelling Slated for Local Theater

$50,000 Improvement Includes New Seats, Air Conditioning

Circleville will soon have an almost new theater.

Negotiations were completed yesterday by Harry J. Clifton Jr. and officials of Chakerers Theaters Inc. for a $50,000 improvement of the Cliftona Theater on Pinckney St.

Clifton, owner of the theater building, and Phil Chakeres, president of the theater chain headquartered at Springfield, made the announcement. Both Chakeres and Clifton will participate in the improvement project.

Chakeres also holds a lease on the Grand Theater which is to be sold at public auction Monday to benefit the estate of the late Ida B. Baughman.

THE improvement, which will get under way immediately, will include an air conditioning system, new seats and equipment. A complete remodeling of both the interior and exterior of the building is scheduled.

Indications are that the seating capacity will be reduced in order to make a bigger lobby and lounge area. Present seating capacity of the theater is 710.

The Cliftona opened here in 1928 under the ownership of the Clifton family. It was operated by them until Chakeres leased the building in July 1943.

Miss Marie Wilkin, present manager of the Grand Theater, was employed as assistant cashier at the theater shortly after the lease was signed by Chakeres. In May 1945, she became manager of the Cliftona and remained in that capacity until it closed June 10, 1954.

The Chakeres firm operated both movie houses here until 1954 when the Cliftona was closed. Miss Wilkin then became manager at the Grand.

Although remodeling of the theater is to begin immediately, no indication of a completion date was offered. However, Miss Wilkin assumed that the Grand will remain in operation until the new movie house is completed.

The Chakeres theater chain operates throughout the southeastern Ohio area and Kentucky.

Oran Terrorism Continues As Diehards Shun Peace Pact

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—A bomb touched off a raging fire in a gas storage reservoir today and sent panic through a nearby residential quarter.

Firemen wearing gas masks attacked the flames with chemical extinguishers. Inhabitants of nearby apartments were ordered to leave.

Gendarmes and troops surrounded the area as flame and smoke billowed up from the blazing reservoir.

The fire was put out after about an hour, but gas continued to escape from the damaged tank. Electric current in the area was cut to avoid danger of explosions.

The spectacular new terrorist action followed a Secret Army Organization broadcast Friday night calling for a final stand against Algeria's imminent independence.

Fugitive former Gen. Paul Gaudy issued the order to his outlawed followers in Oran after stating that contacts with representatives of Moslem nationalists have failed to yield positive results.

A blaze, started by a bomb, gutted the Oran town hall less than an hour after his clandestine broadcast.

In Bone, eastern Algeria, two plastic bomb explosions reminded the population that the local Secret Army command was not accepting the peace negotiated in Algiers.

Algiers alone held on to the precarious peace accord announced Sunday by Moslem nationalist representative, Dr. Cheikh Mostefa, and Secret Army leader Jean-Jacques Susini.

But the accord had little legal or binding value since it consisted only of two broadcast announcements.

One week before Algeria votes on its future, a new dangerous note has crept in.

Machinist fire Friday seriously wounded two Moslem officials in Algiers in a daring attack by men described as Moslems.

The attack was seen as an outgrowth of an internal struggle within the Moslem Front of National Liberation (FLN).

European settlers saw the incident as another sign of future insecurity and turbulence under Moslem rule.

French, U.S. Air Experts Study Jetliner Crash Debris

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP)—French and American aviation experts converged today on a scorched swath of tropical rain jungle where an Air France Boeing 707 jetliner crashed in a raging thunderstorm after reporting landing gear trouble. All 112 persons aboard were killed.

Police blocked off the crash scene until representatives of the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board and Federal Aviation Agency teamed with French air experts from Paris to inspect wreckage of the second worst single-plane disaster in commercial aviation history.

The four-engine airliner smashed into a hill and burst into flames on this French Caribbean island early Friday shortly after winging over Pointe-A-Pitre's Poret Airfield in the start of a landing approach after a flight from Paris.

Officials said the pilot radioed as he passed over the field that he was having difficulty getting the landing gear down. The plane then swept out over the sea.

Minutes later, the control tower radar lost contact at about the same time explosions in the distance were noted. The explosions were taken by some as lightning crackling in the storm.

But after daylight searches spotted the wreckage on Mule's Back Hill 18 miles from the field, and one witness reported: "Nothing left...a horrible sight."

The plane slammed into the hill about 500 feet below its 2,000-foot crest, off the usual landing approach pattern. The pilot of another Air France liner here blamed the crash on the thunderstorm, saying "the ceiling was very low."

The big Boeing jetliners have airline crashes killing a total of 303 persons in the past 17 months.

The London Daily Sketch urged today that the Boeing jets be grounded "until an acceptable explanation is found" for the crashes. But the Federal Aviation Agency said in Washington Friday night that it has no present plans to order them grounded.

"We have no evidence at this time on which to ground them," an FAA spokesman said. "If any evidence turns up we will ground them."

Ike Stuns GOP, Dems With Call for Arms Cut

Stock Mart Dips To 4-Year Low

NEW YORK (AP)—Hit by five consecutive losing sessions, the stock market languished today at its lowest level in nearly four years.

A sharp setback Friday capped a week of decline. An expected rally failed to materialize and the popular market averages sank through the year's low point reached May 29 at the bottom of the worst sell-off since 1929.

Brokers seeking reasons for the continued drop speculated that investors continued to be plagued by the emotional factors which triggered the big plunge May 28. Among these, they said, was anxiety over the business outlook.

Talk about the possibilities of a recession next year was also said to have put more dark emphasis on the business picture.

Discouraging business items of a more immediate nature were Phelps Dodge Corp.'s statement that it may have to reduce copper production, a drop in retail sales below the year-ago level for the first time in three months and a steep fall in automobile production because of a strike at a Ford Motor Co. stamping plant.

The Associated Press 60-stock average Friday skidded 3.40 to 202.50, lowest since Nov. 26, 1958. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 11.30 to 539.19, lowest since Oct. 28, 1958.

The scope of the decline in recent months is shown by comparison with the AP average's all-time high of 262.50 on Feb. 15 and the Dow Jones industrials' peak of 734.91 Dec. 13, 1961.

Blue chips among the industrials—stock considered the soundest investments—suffered in the week's final session. Sharp losses were taken by many steel, chemical, drug, airline, aerospace, rubber and mail order issues.

Some growth stocks, previously hard hit, weathered the storm and posted gains for the day.

While some Wall Street circles spoke of prospects for a summer rally, others guessed buying to push stocks up might not be found until the Dow Jones industrial average descends to around 520-525, the highest levels reached in 1956 and 1951.

NLRB's Offer Shunned by Air Engineers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Flight Engineers International Association, AFL-CIO, said it would strike Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways at 1 p.m. EST today despite a National Mediation Board offer to step in as peacemaker.

"All the mechanics for a peaceful settlement of this dispute were exhausted long ago," a union spokesman said Friday night in announcing the union would carry out the strike regardless of the board's offer.

Eastern Air Lines President Malcolm A. MacIntyre said a strike would force the airline to shut down operations. A Pan American official said Pan Am would continue to operate, but he didn't say how.

The union announced Friday it would strike unless new contracts were reached. It rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" the proposed settlement worked out for a similar dispute between the engineers and Trans World Airlines.

The tentative TWA agreement, reached with the aid of Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, is subject to approval by union members employed by the line. It would resolve a two-year dispute on manning of jet cockpits.

In telegrams Friday night to the union, Eastern and Pan Am, the National Mediation Board asked that no strike action be taken pending a proposed meeting here Monday between their negotiators and board member Francis O'Neil Jr.

Board member Robert O. Boyd said in Washington it was the (Continued on Page 10)

Ratterman Jury Given Weekend Off

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The jury in the trial of six men charged with violating the civil rights of Campbell County Sheriff George Ratterman have the weekend off from their deliberations.

The three women and nine men got the case at 10:07 a.m. Friday. At 6:30 p.m. they filed into the courtroom and told U. S. District Judge Mac Swinford they had been unable to reach a decision.

It's important that this case be decided. Some jury has to decide it. I'm not going to discharge you," Judge Swinford said. "I'm going to let you go home until Monday morning."

The jurors have to decide whether any or all of the six defendants are guilty of conspiracy and or actual violation of Ratterman's civil rights in connection with the former professional football player's arrest in a vice raid on May 9, 1961. He was elected sheriff six months later.

Charged are Newport Police Chief Upshere White and Detectives Patrick Clafardini and Joseph Quiter; attorney Charles E. Lester of Fort Thomas, and the co-owners of the old Glenn Hotel and Tropicana Night Club in Newport, Tito Carinci and Edward Bucciri.

If convicted, they could be sentenced to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine on each charge.

Ex-President Claims Fears 'Unjustified'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stunned Republicans as well as Democrats Friday night with a call for substantial cuts in the nation's $51.6-billion defense budget.

The former president's unexpected assertion that current military spending reflects "unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts" caught Republican congressional leaders short.

Eisenhower did not elaborate. He did not say where he would cut the defense spending which has been regarded by both parties as sacrosanct and above the debate over balancing the budget.

The former president bluntly put it this way at a $100-a-plate Republican party dinner:

"On the military side, we Republicans will continue to work across the political aisle for strength unencumbered by waste, and strength not loaded by hysteria."

"Here I must record my personal belief that substantial amounts in our current defense budget reflect unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts."

"Accordingly, I personally believe—with I am sure very little company in either party—that the defense budget should be substantially reduced."

Democrats have contended in almost every instance that President Kennedy's increased defense spending, aimed largely at beefing up conventional ground forces, was completely justified. Republicans have not objected to the more than $2-billion increase Kennedy made in that budget.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, swallowed a bit and said he was not really too surprised by Eisenhower's statement.

"Gen. Eisenhower remains the best authority in the country on the defense budget," Halleck said. "If he thinks it should be cut, I believe we can find places to do it."

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., was somewhat taken aback by Eisenhower's suggestion. But he rose quickly to respond.

"I have always thought," Scott said, "that any agency of government could take at least a 10 per cent cut in its budget. Perhaps the Defense Department would provide a tighter operation if it were cut by 10 per cent."

Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, had an autograph-signing good time. Republicans of all shades of opinion lined up to get the signatures that were still regarded as valuable in GOP ranks.

When the amenities were over, the former president tore into Kennedy's administration on almost every domestic issue.

He said it was obvious that the Kennedy administration "was floundering, thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately about—in the surging financial, fiscal and economic currents of our time."

McCormack Asks Uncle To Stay Out

BOSTON (AP)—National House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., has received a "Dear John" letter from his nephew asking him to stay out of the Massachusetts McCormack-Kennedy political fight.

McCormack's nephew, State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., is opposing the President's nomination for the U. S. Senate. Kennedy was endorsed for the nomination over Edward McCormack at the Democratic State Convention June 9.

The younger McCormack said he will oppose Kennedy in the open primary Sept. 18.

The President and his brother, U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, have said they will take no direct part in Ted's campaign.

Brunner Watches Are Returned Here

The arrest of two Cincinnati men has resulted in the recovery of 80 wrist watches taken from Brunner's Jewelry Store last week end.

Early inventory indicated that about 60 watches were taken.

King Installs Laos Coalition

Neutralist Prince Heads Newest Regime

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—King Savang Vatthana of Laos today installed the 19-man coalition cabinet headed by neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Premier Prince Boum Oum and the ministers of his anti-Communist Vientiane regime submitted their resignations earlier in the day and cleared the way for the new government, which the United States hopes will take Laos out of the cold war.

Boun Oum stepped out after an 18-month term in office marked by civil war and the growing power of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao. The United States joined the Soviet Union and other big nations in pressing the right-wing Vientiane government to step aside for the coalition of conservatives, neutralists and pro-Communists.

Boun Oum, Souvanna and Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao agreed June 13 on the formation of the new cabinet. But bickering up until the last minute threatened to shatter the agreement even before the coalition took office.

Final agreement on the disputed stag was set for today's ceremonies.

Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, arrived here according to plan from the rebel-held Plaine Des Jars to take office later in the day as a deputy premier. Accompanying him were seven other Pathet Lao and neutralist coalition ministers.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier-designate, announced Friday that political leaders had reached an agreement on the inauguration procedure after a hassle had threatened to torpedo arrangements.

22-Day Celina Strike Ends, Contract OK'd

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—A 22-day strike at the Huffman Manufacturing Co. plant here ended Friday night with the United Steelworkers getting their sought-after two-year contract.

The company, however, immediately announced it will not expand facilities, here, dropping plans for a planting plant. A. C. Lachstadter, plant manager said "the company will not undertake any obligations which cannot be paid for in two years."

The firm, which makes power lawn mowers and bicycles, had wanted a five-year contract in an attempt to plan for an expected elimination of tariff on bicycles. The union demanded a two-year pact.

Included in the agreement was a 6 1/2-cent hourly pay raise for all hourly paid workers and a 50-cent increase for all workers on incentive pay systems. There also were some fringe benefits.

Patrol Chief's Ouster Is Upheld on Appeal

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The ouster of Campbell County Patrol Chief Harry Stuart was affirmed Friday by the court of appeals.

Gov. Bert Combs removed Stuart last Jan. 20 despite a special commissioner's recommendation for dismissal on neglect of duty charges.

Stuart's case, along with those of three other peace officers, stemmed from allegations of widespread vice and gambling in the Newport area.

However, serial checks yesterday at Cincinnati disclosed that 80 timepieces had been removed from the local firm. The retail value was estimated at about $4,500.

Traveling to Cincinnati yesterday to identify the watches were Brunner owner Tom Ebeland, Police St. Turney Ross and an agent from the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

The two suspects, identified as John A. Romeo 39 and Harold B. Lutchins, 28, are now in custody of police in Van Wert where they face accusations of robbing Lauck's Jewelry Store of more than $9,000 in watches and gems on June 13.

THE TWO men were apprehended this week by Cincinnati Police following an extensive investigation. They were released to Van Wert lawmen Thursday afternoon.

According to Cincinnati authorities, Romeo and Lutchins both have previous police records.

Van Wert Police said neither of the men has made statements regarding the jewel thefts and both have denied knowledge of the robberies.

Circleville Police today were attempting to establish proof that the two men were here during the past weekend. They also are investigating possibilities that both may be connected with the safe blowing job at the Super Duper Market the same weekend.

Boys State Winds Up Its 9-Day Stand

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The 25th annual Buckeye Boys' State wound up its nine-day stay on the Ohio University campus here today amid a graduation ceremony and presentation of awards.

City, county and state offices closed up Friday.

Among the final day's actions was the purchase by the staff of the Boys' State daily newspaper, Hetuck.

The purchase ended a week-long controversy over the newspaper, taking the Hetuck out of government hands and turning it into a private enterprise.

The announced formation of a corporation came shortly after Boys' State Gov. David Gibson of Warren vetoed funds approved Thursday by both houses of the legislature to operate the paper.

Besides the paper, several other Boy's State nongovernmental facilities were purchased by their officials. They included the state bank and about half the utilities in the 24 mythical cities.

Some 1,260 boys attended the school in self-government sponsored by the American Legion.

Loyalty Oath Demanded by Girls State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Both houses of Buckeye Girls State legislation prevents anyone from filing for public office who has not taken a loyalty oath.

The measure won unanimous support in the Senate and carried a heavy majority in the House.

The measure was just one of a host of bills to get through the General Assembly as the girls hurried to clear the decks for the closing banquet tonight.

The girls at the American Legion Auxiliary-sponsored school in self-government became as realistic as possible during a civil defense air raid drill Friday. Unannounced a flight of jet fighters from Lockbourne Air Force Base swept over the Capital University campus, startling supervisors who were unaware the girls had asked Air Force officials for the mock raid.

Tonight Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, director of the Institute of International Studies at Bradley University and a former Hungarian finance minister, will make his annual talk to the girls.

Remodelling Slated for Local Theater

$50,000 Improvement Includes New Seats, Air Conditioning

Circleville will soon have an all-new theater.

Negotiations were completed yesterday by Harry J. Clifton Jr. and officials of Chakerers Theaters Inc. for a $50,000 improvement of the Cliftona Theater on Pinekey St.

Clifton, owner of the theater building, and Phil Chakerers, president of the theater chain headquartered at Springfield, made the announcement. Both Chakerers and Clifton will participate in the improvement project.

Chakerers also holds a lease on the Grand Theater which is to be sold at public auction Monday to settle the estate of the late Ida B. Baughman.

THE improvement, which will get under way immediately, will include an air conditioning system, new seats and equipment. A complete remodeling of both the interior and exterior of the building is scheduled.

Indications are that the seating capacity will be reduced in order to make a bigger lobby and lounge area. Present seating capacity of the theater is 710.

The Cliftona opened here in 1928 under the ownership of the Clifton family. It was operated by them until Chakerers leased the building in July 1943.

Miss Marie Wilkin, present manager of the Grand Theater, was employed as assistant cashier at the theater shortly after the lease was signed by Chakerers. In May 1945, she became manager of the Cliftona and remained in that capacity until it closed June 10, 1954.

The Chakerers firm operated both movie houses here until 1954 when the Cliftona was closed. Miss Wilkin then became manager at the Grand.

Although remodeling of the theater is to begin immediately, no indication of a completion date was offered. However, Miss Wilkin assumed that the Grand will remain in operation until the new movie house is completed.

The Chakerers theater chain operates throughout the southern Ohio area and Kentucky.

Ex-President Claims Fears 'Unjustified'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stunned Republicans as well as Democrats Friday night with a call for substantial cuts in the nation's $51.6-billion defense budget.

The former president's unexpected assertion that current military spending reflects "unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts" caught Republican congressional leaders short.

Democrats have contended in almost every instance that President Kennedy's increased defense spending, aimed largely at beefing up conventional ground forces, was completely justified. Republicans have not objected to the more than $2-billion increase Kennedy made in that budget.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, swallowed a bit and said he was not really too surprised by Eisenhower's statement.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., was somewhat taken aback by Eisenhower's suggestion. But he rose quickly to respond.

"I have always thought," Scott said, "that any agency of government could take at least a 10 per cent cut in its budget. Perhaps the Defense Department would provide a tighter operation if it were cut by 10 per cent."

Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, had an autograph-signing good time. Republicans are of all shades of opinion lined up to get the signatures that were still regarded as valuable in GOP ranks.

When the amenities were over, the former president tore into Kennedy's administration on almost every domestic issue.

Eisenhower said among other things that "our national economy has become uncertain, fearful, ill at ease."

He said it was obvious that the Kennedy administration "was floundering, thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately about—in the surging financial, fiscal and economic currents of our time."

McCormack Asks Uncle To Stay Out

BOSTON (AP)—National House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., has received a "Dear John" letter from his nephew asking him to stay out of the Massachusetts McCormack-Kennedy political fight.

McCormack's nephew, State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., is opposing the President's nomination for the U. S. Senate.

Kennedy was endorsed for the nomination over Edward McCormack at the Democratic State Convention June 9.

The younger McCormack said he will oppose Kennedy in the open primary Sept. 18.

The President and his brother, U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, have said they will take no direct part in Ted's campaign.

Brunner Watches Are Returned Here

The arrest of two Cincinnati men has resulted in the recovery of 80 wrist watches taken from Brunner's Jewelry Store last week end.

Early inventory indicated that about 60 watches were taken.

However, serial checks yesterday at Cincinnati disclosed that 80 timepieces had been removed from the local firm. The retail value was estimated at about $4,500.

Traveling to Cincinnati yesterday to identify the watches were Brunner owner Tom Eveland, Police St. Turney Ross and an agent from the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

The two suspects, identified as John A. Romeo 39 and Harold B. Lutchins, 28, are now in custody of police in Van Wert where they face accusations of robbing Laudick's Jewelry Store of more than $9,000 in watches and gems on June 13.

King Installs Laos Coalition

Neutralist Prince Heads Newest Regime

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—King Savang Vathana of Laos today installed the 19-man coalition cabinet headed by neutralist Prince Souvanna Phuma.

Premier Prince Boun Oum and the ministers of his anti-Communist Vientiane regime submitted their resignations earlier in the day and cleared the way for the new government, which the United States hopes will take Laos out of the cold war.

Boun Oum stepped out after an 18-month term in office marked by civil war and the growing power of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao. The United States joined the Soviet Union and other big nations in pressing the right-wing Vientiane government to step aside for the coalition of conservatives, neutralists and pro-Communists.

Boun Oum, Souvanna and Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao agreed June 13 on the formation of the new cabinet. But bickering up until the last minute threatened to shatter the agreement even before the coalition took office.

Final agreement on the disputed stag was set for today's ceremonies.

Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, arrived here according to plan from the rebel-held Plain de Jars to take office later in the day as a deputy premier. Accompanying him were seven other Pathet Lao and neutralist coalition ministers.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier-designate, announced Friday that political leaders had reached an agreement on the inauguration procedure after a hassle had threatened to torpedo arrangements.

22-Day Celina Strike Ends, Contract OK'd

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—A 22-day strike at the Huffman Manufacturing Co. plant here ended Friday night with the United Steelworkers getting their sought-after two-year contract.

The company, however, immediately announced it will not expand facilities, here, dropping plans for a plating plant. A. C. Lachstadter, plant manager said "the company will not undertake any obligations which cannot be paid for in two years."

The firm, which makes power lawn mowers and bicycles, had wanted a five-year contract in an attempt to plan for an expected elimination of tariff on bicycles. The union demanded a two-year pact.

Included in the agreement was a 6 1/2-cent hourly pay raise for all hourly paid workers and a 50-cent increase for all workers on incentive pay systems. There also were some fringe benefits.

Patrol Chief's Ouster Is Upheld on Appeal

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The ouster of Campbell County Patrol Chief Harry Stuart was affirmed Friday by the court of appeals.

Gov. Bert Combs removed Stuart last Jan. 20 despite a special commissioner's recommendation for dismissal on neglect of duty charges.

Stuart's case, along with those of three other peace officers, stemmed from allegations of widespread vice and gambling in the Newport area.

Boys State Winds Up Its 9-Day Stand

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The 25th annual Buckeye Boys' State wound up its nine-day stay on the Ohio University campus here today amid a graduation ceremony and presentation of awards.

City, county and state offices closed up Friday.

Among the final day's actions was the purchase by the staff of the Boys' State daily newspaper, Hetuck.

The purchase ended a week-long controversy over the newspaper, taking the Hetuck out of government hands and turning it into a private enterprise.

The announced formation of a corporation came shortly after Boys' State Gov. David Gibson of Warren vetoed funds approved Thursday by both houses of the legislature to operate the paper.

Besides the paper, several other Boys' State nongovernmental facilities were purchased by their officials. They included the state bank and about half the utilities in the 24 mythical cities.

Some 1,260 boys attended the school in self-government sponsored by the American Legion.

Loyalty Oath Demanded by Girls State

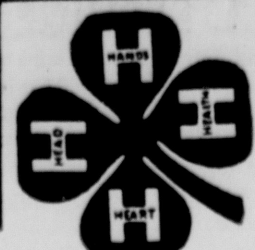

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Both houses of Buckeye Girls State legislation which prevents anyone from filing for public office who has not taken a loyalty oath.

The measure won unanimous support in the Senate and carried a heavy majority in the House.

The measure was just one of a host of bills to get through the General Assembly as the girls hurried to clear the decks for the closing banquet tonight.

The girls at the American Legion Auxiliary-sponsored school in self-government became as realistic as possible during a civil defense air raid drill Friday. Unannounced a flight of jet fighters from Lockbourne Air Force Base swept over the Capital University campus, startling supervisors who were unaware the girls had asked Air Force officials for the mock raid.

Tonight Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, director of the Institute of International Studies at Bradley University and a former Hungarian finance minister, will make his annual talk to the girls.

Helpful Hints Are Listed for Fly Control

In order to protect cows in pasture treat daily with DDVP, 0.2 to 0.5 per cent sirup bait, Extension Agent George Hamrick reminded farmers today. Apply in the morning with a paint brush before cows go out to pasture, the agent said. A dab on the forehead or behind the horns will kill face flies for one day.

Daily applications are needed. In addition, use one heaping tablespoonful of 50 per cent methoxychlor wettable powder and rub into the back, doing this every two weeks for protection against horn flies.

As an alternative, Hamrick advised the use of a high strength pyrethrin livestock spray as a mist over the back at the rate of one ounce per animal per day.

To control flies in the barn, clean-up of manure is necessary, he added. Baits of diptex or other insecticides will control house flies, but residual wall sprays are also necessary to control both stable flies and house flies. He recommended diazinon, korlan, or cygon. Korlan can be used in milkrooms, but cygon and diazinon cannot.

As an alternative, high strength pyrethrum spray can be used in atomizers every day to kill flies that accumulate. A new machine that clips onto the top of a gallon can should find use in barns, milking parlors and loafing sheds.

Barbara Dudleyson gave a demonstration on seam finishes.

The next meeting will be 1 p. m. June 21 at Logan Elm High School.

Sheep Dipping Progressing in County Areas

The Pickaway County approved sheep dipping program is progressing.

To date 2,200 head have been handled here by Lester Brown of Cardington, assisted by Raymond McAvoy.

The dipping program includes using one gallon of Cooper-tox (toxaphene) per 150 gallons of water. This is suitable for controlling sheep scab, lice, ticks, mites and fly strikes. Each sheep is completely submerged in this mixture for 30 seconds.

There are still 1,100 sheep enrolled to be dipped in the program this year. The program will be completed June 28 or 29.

Owners who have not enrolled their flock in this dipping program may do so by calling the Agriculture Extension office, GR 4-5828.

Many Apple and Pear Trees Show Results of Fireblight

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Many apple and pear trees are now showing results of fireblight disease. The tips of branches apparently die from this disease.

Fireblight is a bacterial disease affecting the pome fruits — apples, pears and quinces. It results in a blight of blossoms, twigs and branches, and in the formation of cankers on the large limbs and trunks of affected trees. Young apple and pear trees are frequently killed by it.

Until recently, no satisfactory control for fireblight has been available. Apple varieties vary greatly in susceptibility, although no variety is completely immune. Jonathan is perhaps the most susceptible of the widely grown commercial varieties.

Experiments performed during the past several seasons have shown that the blossom blight phase of fireblight can be largely prevented on apples and pears by timely "in bloom" sprays of the antibiotic, streptomycin.

TWO SPRAYS in bloom, one when the first blossoms are opening, and one at "full bloom" followed by a third spray at petal-fall, have usually given excellent control of blossom blight in Ohio. In most seasons, the control of blossom blight will result in good control of fireblight throughout the year.

For apple and pear growers who wish to use streptomycin for fireblight control, the following recommendations are made: Apply sprays of 50 parts per million of streptomycin to susceptible apple varieties in early bloom, full bloom and at petal fall.

Since fireblight is more difficult to control on pears, a 100 parts per million dosage is suggested on this fruit. Again the sprays should be applied at early bloom, full bloom and petal fall.

Streptomycin formulations for use in orchards can be purchased under various trade names such as Agrimycin, Agristrep, and Phytomycin. Directions printed on the packages will indicate the quantity of each needed to give a 50 or 100 parts per million dosage in 100 gallons of water.

Certain cultural and other practices have been recommended for the purpose of reducing fireblight damage. These practices are still recommended. Trees which are making excessive growth are more susceptible to fireblight, and the progress of the disease in such trees is much more rapid.

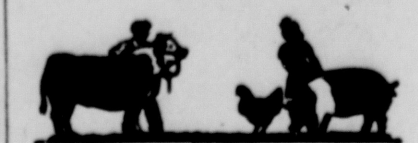

Reduced nitrogen application to pears and to the most susceptible apple varieties is still good practice, although it is believed that the use of streptomycin sprays will now enable the fruit grower to apply fertilizer in amounts adequate for good growth and yields.

CERTAIN types of insects, such as aphids, are known to disseminate the fireblight bacteria. The efficient control of such pests will help also in the control of fireblight.

It is also good practice to eliminate blighted branches and blight cankers during the dormant pruning season. The fireblight bacteria overwinter in such areas and removal of blighted material will aid in fireblight control the following season. The removal of such material will also help prevent damage from blackspot or frog-eye leaf spot, since the black rot fungus invariably invades such dead tissues and spreads from there to the foliage and fruit during the growing season.

Helpful Hints Are Listed for Fly Control

In order to protect cows in pasture treat daily with DDVP, 0.2 to 0.5 per cent sirup bait. Extension Agent George Hamrick reminded farmers today. Apply in the morning with a paint brush before cows go out to pasture, the agent said. A daub on the forehead or behind the horns will kill face flies for one day.

Daily applications are needed. In addition, use one heaping tablespoonful of 50 per cent methoxychlor wettable powder and rub into the back, doing this every two weeks for protection against horn flies.

As an alternative, Hamrick advised the use of a high strength pyrethrin livestock spray as a mist over the back at the rate of one ounce per animal per day.

To control flies in the barn, clean-up of manure is necessary, he added. Bait of dexterox or other insecticides will control house flies, but residual wall sprays are also necessary to control both stable flies and house flies. He recommended diazinon, korlan, or cygon. Korlan can be used in milkrooms, but cygon and diazinon cannot.

As an alternative, high strength pyrethrum spray can be used in atomizers every day to kill flies that accumulate. A new machine that clips onto the top of a gallon can should find use in barns, milking parlors and loafing sheds.

Barbara Dudson gave a demonstration on seam finishes. The next meeting will be 1 p. m. June 21 at Logan Elm High School.

Sheep Dipping Progressing in County Areas

The Pickaway County approved sheep dipping program is progressing.

To date 2,200 head have been handled here by Lester Brown of Cardington, assisted by Raymond McAvoy.

The dipping program includes using one gallon of Cooper-tox (toxaphene) per 150 gallons of water. This is suitable for controlling sheep scab, lice, ticks, mites and fly strikes. Each sheep is completely submerged in this mixture for 30 seconds.

There are still 1,100 sheep enrolled to be dipped in the program this year. The program will be completed June 28 or 29.

Owners who have not enrolled their flock in this dipping program may do so by calling the Agriculture Extension office, GR 4-5828.

Many Apple and Pear Trees Show Results of Fireblight

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Many apple and pear trees are now showing results of fireblight disease. The tips of branches apparently die from this disease.

Fireblight is a bacterial disease affecting the pome fruits — apples, pears and quinces. It results in a blight of blossoms, twigs and branches, and in the formation of cankers on the large limbs and trunks of affected trees. Young apple and pear trees are frequently killed by it.

Until recently, no satisfactory control for fireblight has been available. Apple varieties vary greatly in susceptibility, although no variety is completely immune. Jonathan is perhaps the most susceptible of the widely grown commercial varieties.

Experiments performed during the past several seasons have shown that the blossom blight phase of fireblight can be largely prevented on apples and pears by timely "in bloom" sprays of the antibiotic, streptomycin.

TWO SPRAYS in bloom, one when the first blossoms are opening, and one at "full bloom" followed by a third spray at petal-fall, have usually given excellent control of blossom blight in Ohio. In most seasons, the control of blossom blight will result in good control of fireblight throughout the year.

For apple and pear growers who wish to use streptomycin for fireblight control, the following recommendations are made: Apply sprays of 50 parts per million of streptomycin to susceptible apple varieties in early bloom, full bloom and at petal fall.

Since fireblight is more difficult to control on pears, a 100 parts per million dosage is suggested on this fruit. Again the sprays should be applied at early bloom, full bloom and petal fall.

Streptomycin formulations for use in orchards can be purchased under various trade names such as Agrimycin, Agristrep, and Phytomycin. Directions printed on the packages will indicate the quantity of each needed to give a 50 or 100 parts per million dosage in 100 gallons of water.

Certain cultural and other practices have been recommended for the purpose of reducing fireblight damage. These practices are still recommended. Trees which are making excessive growth are more susceptible to fireblight, and the progress of the disease in such trees is much more rapid.

Reduced nitrogen application to pears and to the most susceptible apple varieties is still good practice, although it is believed that the use of streptomycin sprays will now enable the fruit grower to apply fertilizer in amounts adequate for good growth and yields.

CERTAIN types of insects, such as aphids, are known to disseminate the fireblight bacteria. The efficient control of such pests will help also in the control of fireblight.

It is also good practice to eliminate blighted branches and blight cankers during the dormant pruning season. The fireblight bacteria overwinter in such areas and removal of blighted material will aid in fireblight control the following season. The removal of such material will also help prevent damage from blackspot or frog-eye leaf spot, since the black rot fungus invariably invades such dead tissues and spreads from there to the foliage and fruit during the growing season.

They held an anniversary party at the house in Bermondsey, near the London docks, where they have lived for 75 years. Their eight children, now 79 to 58, are all married except the youngest daughter, Florence. She is 63 and keeps house for her parents.

Probe of GOP Solons Labeled Like 'Gestapo'

Republican Leader Raps Ag Agency's Look at Letters

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-I., said Friday Agriculture Department research into the correspondence of two Republicans on the Senate committee investigating the Bulle Sol Estes case smacks of a Gestapo technique.

Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, House party leader, agreed at a news conference that the exposure of the department's action likely will make the inquiry more, rather than less effective.

Certainly, Halleck said, such tactics will not serve to deter Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., from pursuing a vigorous inquiry by his Senate Investigations subcommittee into the department's dealings with Estes, the Texas wheeler-dealer in cotton, fertilizer and grain-storage who is under indictment for fraud.

"I think it is rather astonishing," Dirksen said, "that two men who happen to be on a committee which will conduct an investigation should be singled out to see whether something could be found that would be embarrassing."

Halleck said that what the department has done shocks the Congress.

The Republicans getting this attention at the Agriculture Department are Sens. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska.

Mundt and Curtis disclosed Thursday they had discovered the Agriculture Department was ignoring out of its files all their correspondence with the agency since 1953.

The two senators, only Republicans on McClellan's six-man subcommittee, called it an attempt by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to thwart the investigation, and to curry favor with the Democratic members by not looking into their writings.

Mundt suggested President Kennedy ought to speak out now as to what he thought of such a practice, and also state publicly whether this was the practice in federal agencies under congressional inquiry.

The two senators made public a sworn statement to subcommittee investigators from Thomas R. Hughes, Freeman's executive Hughes had ordered his staff to dig out of the department's files copies of all correspondence with Mundt and Curtis, but not the letters of any other Congress member.

In a joint statement they described the search for correspondence as an "attempt to intimidate the minority members" of the subcommittee, an effort to thwart the investigation, and a foreshadowed move to "curry favor with the Democratic members" by not looking over their correspondence, too.

Following with a statement of his own, Freeman said there never was any intention to make public any material in the file, "but rather to review matters of concern to the senators by examining inquiries they have directed to the department."

Today, Mundt told a reporter "this matter addresses itself to President Kennedy himself, now. He ought to make it clear, for one thing, whether this is a standard operating procedure in government, to employ these tactics against Congress members, when 'situations' arise."

Mabel Hubbard, who later became Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, lost her hearing before she was 5, during an attack of scarlet fever. She learned to lip read and at 13 learned German by lip reading.

Homemaker News

By MISS EMMA LOU TACKETT

Home Economics Agent

We are all consumers of one thing or another.

As homemakers we prepare family meals and purchase most of the family food. We decide what we like and select it from the vast supply of food items on the supermarket shelves.

But what do we, the consumers, like? And how do home economists for food companies decide what food items to put on the supermarket shelves?

This is where we are boss. We decide what food items we like and what we want on the supermarket shelf. When we buy a food item we are really casting our vote of approval for that particular item.

IN OTHER words, we are saying that we like that particular product. As long as we continue to buy that product the food companies will continue to produce and supply it.

But if a food item does not sell very well the food company will soon drop it from its line of foods. So we, ourselves, indirectly tell the food companies what to put on the supermarket shelves.

Home economists for food companies use these three ways in trying to find out what we consumers like:

Market research — tells them about changing patterns of consumption and points directions toward new markets and new products.

Technological research — seeks new methods of growing and processing foods to make it more attractive, nutritious, and more economical.

Product development — they constantly look for new foods and new concepts to satisfy changing consumer tastes.

We will continue to tell food companies whether we want a greater or a smaller variety of foods . . . whether we want large or small packages . . . whether we want more packaged meals or less . . . whether we want our recipes simpler or more exotic.

Remember, food items are put on shelves either because we asked for them or for our approval. We are boss!

The 10 Commandments of storage are:

1. Discard unused articles.

2. Use waste space.

3. Keep things within easy reach.

4. Have a place for everything and keep everything in place.

5. Store like things together.

6. Keep things neatly arranged.

7. Have everything easily seen.

8. Label boxes.

9. Keep near at hand those items used often.

10. Store heavy objects near waist level or below.

1939 Sculpture of Kennedy Part of Altar in Vatican

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sculptured likeness of President Kennedy as a winged angel — for which he posed 23 years ago — is part of an altar pane in the Vatican, the Washington Post related today.

The Post, in a story by Winzoa McLendon and quoting Washington sculptress Irena Wiley, said Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, posed for the figure in a wood sculptured panel in an altar which Mrs. Wiley carved and gave to the Vatican.

He was the "most charming and patient model," recalls Mrs. Wiley, wife of a foreign service officer, John Cooper Wiley.

The incident is contained in a book Mrs. Wiley has written, "Around the Globe in Twenty Years" which will be published in August by the David McKay Co.

According to Mrs. Wiley it happened in 1939 when Mrs. Wiley's husband was serving as a diplomat in Latvia and Estonia and President Kennedy's father was ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Kennedy, now 45, would have been 22 then.

Young Kennedy, who she said was "trying to learn as much as he could about Europe," came to spend a week or so of his summer vacation with the Wileys.

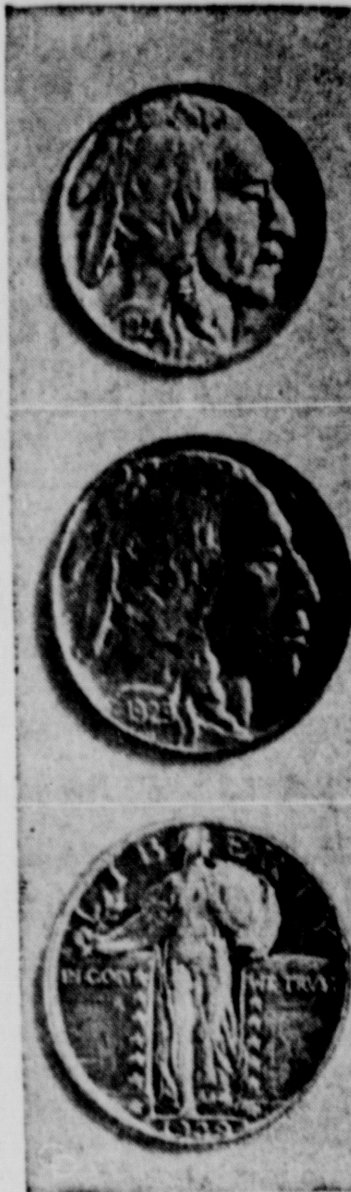

"I was doing an altar of St.

Pennsy Boy, 19, Given Life Sentence at Trial

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — Donald Montgomery, 19, was sentenced to life imprisonment today in Butler County Court for his part in the arson murder of an elderly woman.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted the Brackenridge youth of first degree murder Thursday night in his second trial in the death of Mrs. Pauline Ritter, 69, of Cabot.

The prosecution had asked for the death penalty but the jury showed mercy.

EXPERTS BUFFALOED — Coin experts in San Francisco are puzzled by the over-sized nickel (center), owned by coin dealer Amos West. Its size can be compared with a regulation nickel (top) and a quarter. They wonder if someone has discovered a way of rolling out a standard size buffalo into the larger size without distorting the features on the coin.

Lamb Industries Buys Pennsy Firm's Assets

NEW YORK (AP) — Lamb Industries, Inc., diversified manufacturer with headquarters in Toledo, Ohio, has acquired primary assets of TM Manufacturing Co., formerly Texton Metals Co., of Pottsville, Pa. The amount involved in the cash transaction was not disclosed. TM's window and door manufacturing operations will be moved to Milwaukee.

Steering Gear Breaks, Ohioan's Auto Rolls

MASON, Mich. (AP) — When the steering mechanism in her 1961 car broke, Helen Sotora was driving south on US-127 near here. Then the car began to roll.

It rolled over five times, hit a parked car, and came to rest by banging into the brick wall of a restaurant.

She was treated at Mason General Hospital for cuts and a possible hip injury.

Indonesian Chief Indicates Conflict Ahead against Dutch

SINGAPORE (AP)—A potentially explosive point has been reached in Indonesia's dispute with the Dutch over West New Guinea.

President Sukarno's attitude on the issue is swinging toward open conflict. It will be hard for him to back up without losing face. He has promised the Indonesian people West New Guinea will be theirs by the end of this year.

Sukarno has bluffed before, but there is an air of concern that this time he means what he says.

His public statements, until early this month, put more emphasis on a negotiated settlement of the West New Guinea issue under a plan sponsored by American diplomat Ellsworth Bunker. This proposal eventually would give the right of self-determination to the predominantly Papuan population of New Guinea.

The president's attitude now has changed and he is making no pretense of concealing it. His chief spokesman, Foreign Minister Subandrio, says Sukarno is telling his advisers that a military showdown is the only solution.

Indonesian officials, from Subandrio down, talk more today of open conflict than they do of a diplomatic decision. Senior military officials, especially those working with the present operations against New Guinea, are ready to take the plunge. Sukarno can be assured of support from his people if he decides on an all-out fight. He still wields a magnetic influence over his 96 million people who believe "Bung Karno" can do no wrong.

The government-controlled press is urging him to discard any thought of negotiation and to launch a full-scale liberation campaign.

Indonesian officials appear convinced that the major Western powers would not interfere if war comes over West New Guinea. They look to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries to support their cause.

British Pair Notes

80th Anniversary

LONDON (AP) — James Burgess, 102, and his wife Ann, 98, celebrated their 80th wedding anniversary Thursday and claimed to be Britain's longest married couple.

They held an anniversary party at the house in Bermondsey, near the London docks, where they have lived for 75 years. Their eight children, now 79 to 59, are all married except the youngest daughter, Florence. She is 63 and keeps house for her parents.

"The reason for our happiness, I think, is because I've always worn the trousers in this house," said Burgess. "There's no other way."

Probe of GOP Solons Labeled Like 'Gestapo'

Republican Leader Raps Ag Agency's Look at Letters

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-I., said Friday Agriculture Department research into the correspondence of two Republicans on the Senate committee investigating the Billie Sol Estes case smacks a little of a Gestapo technique.

Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, House party leader, agreed at a news conference that the exposure of the department's action likely will make the inquiry more, rather than less effective.

Certainly, Halleck said, such tactics will not serve to deter Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., from pursuing a vigorous inquiry by his Senate Investigations subcommittee into the department's dealings with Estes, the Texas wheeler-dealer in cotton, fertilizer and grain-storage who is under indictment for fraud.

"I think it is rather astonishing," Dirksen said, "that two men who happen to be on a committee which will conduct an investigation should be singled out to see whether something could be found that would be embarrassing."

Halleck said that what the department has done shocks the consumers.

The Republicans getting this attention at the Agriculture Department are Sens. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska.

Mundt and Curtis disclosed Thursday they had discovered the Agriculture Department was ignoring out of its files all their correspondence with the agency since 1953.

The two senators, only Republicans on McClellan's six-man subcommittee, called it an attempt by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to thwart the investigation, and to curry favor with the Democratic members by not looking into their writings.

Mundt suggested President Kennedy ought to speak out now as to what he thought of such a practice, and also state publicly whether this was the practice in federal agencies under congressional inquiry.

The two senators made public a sworn statement to subcommittee investigators from Thomas R. Hughes, Freeman's executive assistant, who had ordered his staff to dig out of the department's files copies of all correspondence with Mundt and Curtis, but not the letters of any other Congress member.

In a joint statement they described the search for correspondence as an 'attempt to intimidate the minority members' of the subcommittee, an effort to thwart the investigation, and a foredoomed move to "curry favor with the Democratic members" by not looking over their correspondence, too.

Following with a statement of his own, Freeman said there never was any intention to make public any material in the file, "but rather to review matters of concern to the senators by examining inquiries they have directed to the department."

Today, Mundt told a reporter "this matter addresses itself to President Kennedy himself, now. He ought to make it clear, for one thing, whether this is a standard operating procedure in government, to employ these tactics against Congress members, when 'situations' arise."

Mabel Hubbard, who later became Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, lost her hearing before she was 5, during an attack of scarlet fever. She learned to lip read and at 13 learned German by lip reading.

Homemaker News

By MISS EMMA LOU TACKETT

Home Economics Agent

We are all consumers of one thing or another.

As homemakers we prepare family meals and purchase most of the family food. We decide what we like and select it from the vast supply of food items on the supermarket shelves.

But what do we, the consumers, like? And how do home economists for food companies decide what food items to put on the supermarket shelves?

This is where we are boss. We decide what food items we like and what we want on the supermarket shelf. When we buy a food item we are really casting our vote of approval for that particular item.

IN OTHER words, we are saying that we like that particular product. As long as we continue to buy that product the food companies will continue to produce and supply it.

But if a food item does not sell very well the food company will soon drop it from its line of foods. So we, ourselves, indirectly tell the food companies what to put on the supermarket shelves.

Home economists for food companies use these three ways in trying to find out what we consumers like:

Market research — tells them about changing patterns of consumption and points directions toward new markets and new products.

Technological research — seeks new methods of growing and processing foods to make it more attractive, nutritious, and more economical.

Product development — they constantly look for new foods and new concepts to satisfy changing consumer tastes.

We will continue to tell food companies whether we want a greater or a smaller variety of foods... whether we want large or small packages... whether we want more packaged meals or less... whether we want our recipes simpler or more exotic.

Remember, food items are put on shelves either because we asked for them or for our approval. We are boss!

The 10 Commandments of storage are:

1. Discard unused articles.
2. Use waste space.
3. Keep things within easy reach.
4. Have a place for everything and keep everything in place.
5. Store like things together.
6. Keep things neatly arranged.
7. Have everything easily seen.
8. Label boxes.
9. Keep near at hand those items used often.
10. Store heavy objects near waist level or below.

1939 Sculpture of Kennedy Part of Altar in Vatican

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sculptured likeness of President Kennedy as a winged angel — for which he posed 23 years ago — is part of an altar pane in the Vatican, the Washington Post related today.

The Post, in a story by Winzo McLendon and quoting Washington sculptress Irena Wiley, said Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, posed for the figure in a wood sculptured panel in an altar which Mrs. Wiley carved and gave to the Vatican.

He was the "most charming and patient model," recalls Mrs. Wiley, wife of a foreign service officer, John Cooper Wiley.

The incident is contained in a book Mrs. Wiley has written, "Around the Globe in Twenty Years" which will be published in August by the David McKay Co.

According to Mrs. Wiley it happened in 1939 when Mrs. Wiley's husband was serving as a diplomat in Latvia and Estonia and President Kennedy's father was ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Kennedy, now 45, would have been 22 then.

Young Kennedy, who she said was "trying to learn as much as he could about Europe," came to spend a week or so of his summer vacation with the Wileys.

"I was doing an altar of St.

Pennsy Boy, 19, Given Life Sentence at Trial

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — Donald Montgomery, 19, was sentenced to life imprisonment today in Butler County Court for his part in the arson murder of an elderly woman.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted the Brackenridge youth of first degree murder Thursday night in his second trial in the death of Mrs. Pauline Ritter, 69, of Cabot.

The prosecution had asked for the death penalty but the jury showed mercy.

EXPERTS BUFFALOED — Coin experts in San Francisco are puzzled by the over-sized nickel (center), owned by coin dealer Amos West. Its size can be compared with a regulation nickel (top) and a quarter. They wonder if someone has discovered a way of rolling out a standard size buffalo into the larger size without distorting the features on the coin.

Lamb Industries Buys Pennsy Firm's Assets

NEW YORK (AP) — Lamb Industries, Inc., diversified manufacturer with headquarters in Toledo, Ohio, has acquired primary assets of TM Manufacturing Co., formerly Tectron Metals Co., of Pottsville, Pa. The amount involved in the cash transaction was not disclosed. TM's window and door manufacturing operations will be moved to Milwaukee.

Steering Gear Breaks, Ohioan's Auto Rolls

MASON, Mich. (AP) — When the steering mechanism in her 1961 car broke, Helen Sotora was driving south on US-127 near here. Then the car began to roll.

It rolled over five times, hit a parked car, and came to rest by banging into the brick wall of a restaurant.

She was treated at Mason General Hospital for cuts and a possible hip injury.

Indonesian Chief Indicates Conflict Ahead against Dutch

SINGAPORE (AP)—A potentially explosive point has been reached in Indonesia's dispute with the Dutch over West New Guinea.

President Sukarno's attitude on the issue is swinging toward open conflict. It will be hard for him to back up without losing face. He has promised the Indonesian people West New Guinea will be theirs by the end of this year.

Sukarno has bluffed before, but there is an air of concern that this time he means what he says.

His public statements, until early this month, put more emphasis on a negotiated settlement of the West New Guinea issue under a plan sponsored by American diplomat Ellsworth Bunker. This proposal eventually would give the right of self-determination to the predominantly Papuan population of New Guinea.

The president's attitude now has changed and he is making no pretense of concealing it. His chief spokesman, Foreign Minister Subandrio, says Sukarno is telling his advisers that a military showdown is the only solution.

Indonesian officials, from Subandrio down, talk more today of open conflict than they do if a diplomatic decision. Senior military officials, especially those working with the present operations against New Guinea, are ready to take the plunge.

Sukarno can be assured of support from his people if he decides on an all-out fight. He still wields a magnetic influence over his 96 million people who believe "Bung Karno" can do no wrong.

The government-controlled press is urging him to discard any thought of negotiation and to launch a full-scale liberation campaign.

Indonesian officials appear convinced that the major Western powers would not interfere if war comes over West New Guinea. They look to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries to support their cause.

It is not easy for a cabinet member to admit he is unable under existing rules, to remove from the employment rolls of his department thousands of unneeded employees. That is what Secretary of Commerce Hodges has done in testimony before the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The secretary estimated there are at least 3,000 jobs in his department alone which would be wiped off the government blotter and not be missed at all. Chances are the efficiency of the Commerce Department would be improved by the action, because these people are involved in nothing more important than making work for themselves and others under the principle of Parkinson's law, which holds that "work" will expand to utilize all available man hours — and more besides. Why doesn't Secretary Hodges fire this deadwood, or at least not fill vacancies as they occur? Because under the rigid control of Civil Service rules even a cabinet member has little to say about the number who serve under him.

Civil Service has improved the security of public employes and thereby attracted the loyalties or the qualifications of those better qualified applicants. But it has also served as a haven of self-perpetuation. There have been instances of Civil Service employes who have been summarily fired — such as the State Department investigator who revealed American aid funds were being siphoned into a Russian hospital in Southeast Asia and the White House shorthand reporter whose attention to detail caught the President making a speech from his swimming pool — but ordinarily a Civil Service employe can be removed only for insubordination or dishonesty.

Secretary Hodges is not the only high government official to complain recently about inability to reduce the federal payroll even when the desire to do so is present. Sen. Henry Jackson heads a subcommittee looking into overstaffing of the State and Defense Departments and related defense effort activities. He is convinced "the size of many government offices swelled beyond the real requirements."

Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia has said this for years.

Congress created Civil Service, and only it can modernize the basic ground rules under which the system operates. With the federal payroll at a peak, continuing budget deficits throwing the financial condition of the nation further askew, and at least one department head complaining he has more employees than he knows what to do with — 1962 would seem to be a propitious year to begin making some realistic changes in the rules for government employment.

Why No Protective Action?

What would be your reaction if you were told one wing of the nation's defense system ignored the order of its senior command in a matter of material procurement, and as a result wasted almost $30 million to develop and build a fleet of helicopters which it had already developed for another wing — and which existed in sufficient numbers to supply both?

This in essence is what the Comptroller General has accused the Air Force of doing in equipping itself with 134 H-34B craft. In itself, the waste of $30 million of tax monies is serious. But when the wastage is accompanied by apparent disregard of Defense Department objections, it crosses the border of criminal extravagance.

Congress has been informed by the comptroller's office that the Air Force went ahead with plans to develop the special utility-type helicopter and procured 134 of them — at a cost of $20 million more than the original estimated cost — although the Army already possessed the HU-1A helicopter. The HU-1A is essentially the same as the H-43B, and in fact was developed for the Army by the Air Force.

Defense Department officials, who are supposed to oversee and coordinate activities of the individual services, were roundly criticized for not stopping the Air Force program after objecting to the duplication. In addition to the extra $20 million spent for procurement of the Air Force craft, it cost $9.5 million to develop from the drawing board.

As usual, no corrective action has been announced by the Defense Department to assure the taxpayers such a deplorable lack of regard for public monies will not occur again. In fact, if this case runs true to form little will result in the form of remedial action.

Congress will duly note the report, the Defense Department will do its best to "explain" — not correct — the situation, and the Comptroller General and the General Accounting Office will continue to bring to public view multi-million dollar abuses of the public trust.

Young Driver Jumps From Pan into Fire

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—John Florio Otto, 19, arrested for speeding on two consecutive days, was convicted in Recorder's Court on both counts Thursday.

He was fined a total of $25 and court costs, and his driver's license was revoked for six months.

Patrolman D. L. Nivens followed Otto from the courtroom.

Nivens said Otto got into his car and started to drive away. Nivens arrested him for driving after his license had been suspended. Otto posted bond of $100 on that charge.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE LAST TIME I visited Detroit, I was shown a letter that an Athletic Club member sent home from a fishing trip in Mazatlan, Mexico. It read, "Anyone who boards a fishing boat in this area is issued an ear— not to be used for propulsion but to protect the tourist against the attacks of fish that have grown weary of maladroitness attempts to catch them, and jump into the boat."

"Then there is Julius. Julius is a boacooner about 14 feet long and a great household pet. He earns his keep by holding the rodent population down to a reasonable level. When not hunting rats, he has been trained to sit neatly coiled up in a rocking chair facing away from the main lobby entrance. Thus he provides newcomers with an element of surprise. One newcomer made the U.S. border—some 500 miles—in four hours flat, on foot, after getting a look at Julius. Another arrived in the lobby with a small dog on a leash. Julius, being somewhat nearsighted, mistook the dog for a rat. At least the newcomer has the leash left."

Christopher, age 5, attended a birthday party in a brand new suit. When he came home, ragged holes had been cut into it with a pair of scissors. Gasped his horrified mother, "What did you do to your beautiful new suit?"

"We decided to play store," explained Christopher cheerfully. "I was a piece of Swiss cheese."

An upstate farmer was called to testify in a Congressional investigation and had difficulty with a microphone at the witness stand. "This mike," he told his attorney in a stage whisper, "is just like the cuspidor in the Mansion House lobby. You've got to hit it dead center or you might as well forget it."

A Good Spanking Might Help

By George Sokolsky

It used to be that the parks of our large cities were pleasant places to spend a Summer night, perhaps sleeping on the green or spooning under the moon or revelling in dreams.

Today prudent people are afraid to go into the parks of such a place as New York, afraid of being mugged, afraid of being robbed, afraid of being killed. In 1961, 2,525 policemen were attacked in New York City. The same kind of story comes from Chicago, San Francisco and every large city.

And the criminals are children, juveniles, kids, who ought to be spanked. Silly social workers and judges who want a glorious reputation of being socially conscious let these terrorists off easy because they are young. If their parents had used a cat-o'-nine-tails on them early enough or if a cop were permitted to use a nightstick on them, these kids would learn to behave.

In "Look," Samuel Grafton says:

"No Chicagoan in his right mind would dream of strolling at night through Grant Park, along the downtown lakefront. And the New Yorker who used to sleep on the grass in Central Park on hot nights would as soon take a cosy nap on an East Berlin sidewalk with an American flag in his hand."

The fact is that crime in this country is growing so rapidly that we are one of the most lawless people on Earth. If, when a policeman wants to make an arrest, a neighborhood mob intervenes, all who can be caught should be arrested and punished severely. A few exhibitions of police strength, unimpeded by politically-minded judges, would be a splendid lesson. A decent citizen would help the policeman.

Grafton quotes Cleveland's chief of police, Frank W. Story:

"Not long ago a crowd of 50 to 60 people calmly watched one of our motorcycle men, a good officer, being beaten by a couple of thugs. No one called the police."

Lawlessness and danger often makes for corruption among the police. Disgusted by the ridiculous attitude of judges, annoyed at police rules which often are disadvantageous to the policeman, tempted by large and small bribes, policemen do go wrong. When a cop risks his life to bring in a mugger, a thief or a rapist and then finds a soft-minded judge, assisted by a social worker, letting the criminal off because he has not yet reached the magic age of 21, the cop naturally throws up his hands in disgust.

For there is only one way to stop crime and that is to have "hanging judges" on hand to get rid of messy human beings. Every year, the age of criminals grows younger. Why? Because as the kids say, "You can't do nothing to me. I ain't 21 yet." 21, my eye!

Bring out the cat and throw the kid over the knee of a strong cop, let down his pants, and give him an old-fashioned hiding and he won't forget it.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy says:

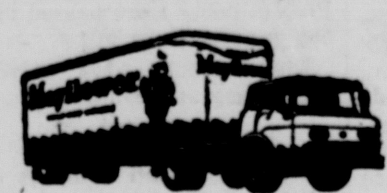

"The only lasting solution will come when people everywhere realize their own responsibilities to abide by the law."

I fear that some virtues have to be pounded into some people. They learn better through the rear-end than by eyes and ears. What they hear goes in one ear and comes out through the other. What they see is the bunk. But what they feel leaves with them a lasting, even an everlasting, impression. The worst thing about city life is that the old-woodshed is gone and when a kid screams, the neighbors hear the noise and telephone in their complaints.

The parent who has good children is truly blessed.

When I was a youngster, we always knew the cop on the beat. We usually liked him. If we were bad, he gave us a warning. If we were very bad, he would tell our parents who would probably whack us to maintain family self-respect. There were no juvenile courts in those days. Some kids were pickpockets and petty thieves. So they were locked up. Those who were locked up were likely to become permanent criminals. But the crime rate was low.

Nowadays, with all kinds of courts and social reforms and progressive education and recreation and everything done for the kids, the crime rate goes up every year and the criminal is younger. Is this progress?

The secretary estimated there are at least 3,000 jobs in his department alone which would be wiped off the government blotter and not be missed at all. Chances are the efficiency of the Commerce Department would be improved by the action, because these people are involved in nothing more important than making work for themselves and others under the principle of Parkinson's law, which holds that "work" will expand to utilize all available man hours — and more besides.

Why doesn't Secretary Hodges fire this deadwood, or at least not fill vacancies as they occur? Because under the rigid control of Civil Service rules even a cabinet member has little to say about the number who serve under him.

Civil Service has improved the security of public employees and thereby attracted the loyalties or the qualifications of those better qualified applicants. But it has also served as a haven of self-perpetuation. There have been instances of Civil Service employees who have been summarily fired — such as the State Department investigator who revealed American aid funds were being siphoned into a Russian hospital in Southeast Asia and the White House shorthand reporter whose attention to detail caught the President making a speech from his swimming pool — but ordinarily a Civil Service employee can be removed only for insubordination or dishonesty.

Secretary Hodges is not the only high government official to complain recently about inability to reduce the federal payroll even when the desire to do so is present. Sen. Henry Jackson heads a subcommittee looking into overstaffing of the State and Defense Departments and related defense effort activities. He is convinced "the size of many government offices swelled beyond the real requirements."

Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia has said this for years.

Congress created Civil Service, and only it can modernize the basic ground rules under which the system operates. With the federal payroll at a peak, continuing budget deficits throwing the financial condition of the nation further askew, and at least one department head complaining he has more employees than he knows what to do with — 1962 would seem to be a propitious year to begin making some realistic changes in the rules for government employment.

Why No Protective Action?

What would be your reaction if you were told one wing of the nation's defense system ignored the order of its senior command in a matter of materiel procurement, and as a result was a $30 million to develop and build a fleet of helicopters which it had already developed for another wing — and which existed in sufficient numbers to supply both?

This in essence is what the Comptroller General has accused the Air Force of doing in equipping itself with 134 H-34B craft. In itself, the waste of $30 million of tax monies is serious. But when the wastage is accompanied by apparent disregard of Defense Department objections, it crosses the border of criminal extravagance.

Congress has been informed by the comptroller's office that the Air Force went ahead with plans to develop the special utility-type helicopter and procured 134 of them — at a cost of $20 million more than the original estimated cost — although the Army already possessed the HU-1A helicopter. The HU-1A is essentially the same as the H-43B, and in fact was developed for the Army by the Air Force.

Defense Department officials, who are supposed to oversee and coordinate activities of the individual services, were roundly criticized for not stopping the Air Force program after objecting to the duplication. In addition to the extra $20 million spent for procurement of the Air Force craft, it cost $9.5 million to develop from the drawing board.

As usual, no corrective action has been announced by the Defense Department to assure the taxpayers such a deplorable lack of regard for public monies will not occur again. In fact, if this case runs true to form little will result in the form of remedial action.

Congress will duly note the report, the Defense Department will do its best to "explain" — not correct — the situation, and the Comptroller General and the General Accounting Office will continue to bring to public view multi-million dollar abuses of the public trust.

Young Driver Jumps From Pan into Fire

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—John Florio, 19, arrested for speeding on two consecutive days, was convicted in Recorder's Court on both counts Thursday.

He was fined a total of $25 and court costs, and his driver's license was revoked for six months.

Patrolman D. L. Nivens followed Otto from the courtroom.

Nivens said Otto got into his car and started to drive away. Nivens arrested him for driving after his license had been suspended. Otto posted bond of $100 on that charge.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE LAST TIME I visited Detroit, I was shown a letter that an Athletic Club member sent home from a fishing trip in Mazatlan, Mexico. It read, "Anyone who boards a fishing boat in this area is issued an oar—not to be used for propulsion but to protect the tourist against the attacks of fish that have grown weary of maladroitness attempts to catch them, and jump into the boat."

"Then there is Julius. Julius is a boanconstrictor about 14 feet long and a great household pet. He earns his keep by holding the rodent population down to a reasonable level. When not hunting rats, he has been trained to sit neatly coiled up in a rocking chair facing away from the main lobby entrance. Thus he provides newcomers with an element of surprise. One newcomer made the U.S. border—some 500 miles—in four hours flat, on foot, after getting a look at Julius. Another arrived in the lobby with a small dog on a leash. Julius, being somewhat nearsighted, mistook the dog for a rat. At least the newcomer has the leash left."

Christopher, age 5, attended a birthday party in a brand new suit. When he came home, ragged holes had been cut into it with a pair of scissors. Gasped his horrified mother, "What did you do to your beautiful new suit?"

"We decided to play store," explained Christopher cheerfully. "It was a piece of Swiss cheese."

An upstate farmer was called to testify in a Congressional investigation and had difficulty with a microphone at the witness stand. "This mike," he told his attorney in a stage whisper, "is just like the cuspidor in the Mansion House lobby. You've got to hit it dead center or you might as well forget it."

A Good Spanking Might Help

By George Sokolsky

It used to be that the parks of our large cities were pleasant places to spend a Summer night, perhaps sleeping on the green or spooning under the moon or re-veling in dreams.

Today prudent people are afraid to go into the parks of such a place as New York, afraid of being mugged, afraid of being robbed, afraid of being killed. In 1961, 2,325 policemen were attacked in New York City. The same kind of story comes from Chicago, San Francisco and every large city.

And the criminals are children, juveniles, kids, who ought to be spanked. Silly social workers and judges who want a glorious reputation of being socially conscious let these terrorists off easy because they are young. If their parents had used a cat-o-nine-tails on them early enough or if a cop were permitted to use a night-stick on them, these kids would learn to behave.

In "Look," Samuel Grafton says:

"No Chicagoan in his right mind would dream of strolling at night through Grant Park, along the downtown lakefront. And the New Yorker who used to sleep on the grass in Central Park on hot nights would as soon take a cosy nap on an East Berlin sidewalk with an American flag in his hand."

The fact is that crime in this country is growing so rapidly that we are one of the most lawless people on Earth. If, when a policeman wants to make an arrest, a neighborhood mob intervenes, all who can be caught should be arrested and punished severely. A few exhibitions of police strength, unimpeded by politically-minded judges, would be a splendid lesson. A decent citizen would help the policeman.

Grafton quotes Cleveland's chief of police, Frank W. Story:

"Not long ago a crowd of 50 to 60 people calmly watched one of our motorcycle men, a good officer, being beaten by a couple of thugs. No one called the police."

Lawlessness and danger often makes for corruption among the police. Disgusted by the ridiculous attitude of judges, annoyed at police rules which often are disadvantageous to the policeman, tempted by large and small bribes, policemen do go wrong. When a cop risks his life to bring in a mugger, a thief or a rapist and then finds a softminded judge, assisted by a social worker, letting the criminal off because he has not yet reached the magic age of 21, the cop naturally throws up his hands in disgust.

For there is only one way to stop crime and that is to have "hanging judges" on hand to get rid of messy human beings. Every year, the age of criminals grows younger. Why? Because as the kids say, "You can't do nothing to me. I ain't 21 yet." 21, my eye!

Bring out the cat and throw the kid over the knee of a strong cop, let down his pants, and give him an old-fashioned hiding and he won't forget it.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy says:

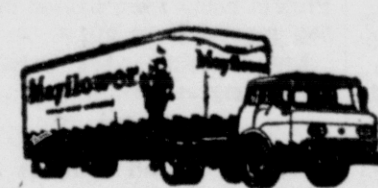

"The only lasting solution will come when people everywhere realize their own responsibilities to abide by the law."

I fear that some virtues have to be pounded into some people. They learn better through the rear-end than by eyes and ears. What they hear goes in one ear and comes out through the other. What they see is the bunk. But what they feel leaves with them a lasting, even an everlasting, impression. The worst thing about city life is that the old-woodshed is gone and when a kid screams, the neighbors hear the noise and telephone in their complaints.

The parent who has good children is truly blessed.

When I was a youngster, we always knew the cop on the beat. We usually liked him. If we were bad, he gave us a warning. If we were very bad, he would tell our parents who would probably whack us to maintain family self-respect. There were no juvenile courts in those days. Some kids were pickpockets and petty thieves. So they were locked up. Those who were locked up were likely to become permanent criminals. But the crime rate was low.

Nowadays, with all kinds of courts and social reforms and progressive education and recreation and everything done for the kids, the crime rate goes up every year and the criminal is younger. Is this progress?

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

He Won't Dance!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy. My father is teaching me how to dance. He is supposed to be a real good dancer (at least that's what my mother says.) Well, maybe he was considered good in his day, but he dances like they used to way back in the early 40's and I can't get it. Anyway, even if I couldn't care to dance that way because no one dances like that any more. How can I cut off his lessons without hurting his feelings?

LEARNING TO DANCE
DEAR LEARNING: Don't be foolish. Let him teach you. It might come in handy when you have to dance with your girl friends mother. In the meantime, get someone in your generation to teach you how to dance 1962 style.

DEAR ABBY: My two-year-old son sucks his thumb. I have discussed it with his pediatrician who advised me to ignore it. My problem is this: Whenever I take the child marketing, strangers will say to him, "Does that thumb taste good?" Or, "BIG boys don't suck their thumbs!" All this teasing and shaming have aggravated the habit. I have even had clerks pull his thumb out of his mouth while I paid for my purchases. What should I do?

MRS.
DEAR MRS.: You can't control the remarks of strangers. Ignore them, too.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received an invitation to a shower by the mother of the bride. On the invitation was written: "PLEASE BRING SANDWICHES."

I am not a relative. I wasn't sure if she meant I should bring sandwiches for the crowd, or just for myself, so I called her up and she Southerly winds will increase moisture over Ohio, making conditions favorable for thundershowers today through Sunday. Although thundershowers can occur at any time, afternoon and evening incidence will be most likely.

Temperatures today and Sunday will be in the 80s or near 90, and the lows tonight in the 60s.

Telephone Co. Eyes Business Listing July 2

The annual canvass of business telephone customers listed in the Circleville directory begins July 2, General Telephone Co. of Ohio announced today.

Donald F. Colegrove of Circleville, district commercial manager, said representatives of the General Telephone Director Co. will call on area businessmen to review listings for the 1962 Directory.

The canvass will last until Aug. 3, Colegrove added. The deadline for both business and residential customers to make changes in the new directory is also Aug. 3.

Exchanges listed in the Circleville directory include Circleville, Ashville, Laurelville and Williamsport. The new phone book is scheduled for delivery in late September.

Red Buildup Off Quemoy Believed Defensive

HONG KONG (AP)—Most Western intelligence sources in Hong Kong believe Red China's current military buildup opposite the Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu is defensive. But they do not discount the possibility of a Communist attack.

These sources believe that any Red attack would most likely be triggered by fears that President Chiang Kai-shek's regime was going to try to make good his vow to retake the Chinese mainland. "I'd be very surprised if the Chinese Communists launched an offensive," one well-placed intelligence informant said today. "I think the chances are about 3-1 against it. But if they felt the Chinese Nationalists were about to attack, they would probably want to beat them to the punch."

Top Nationalist officials have been predicting an offensive against Red China for some time.

But the possibility seems remote. The Nationalists have said they would launch an attack only after an uprising on the mainland. The recent exodus of hungry refugees from Red China to Hong Kong prompted anti-Communist newspapers here and in Formosa to declare the time for an assault had come. But Western officials believe the Red regime is still firmly in power despite critical food shortages in China.

A Nationalist attack also would need U.S. logistic support at least to have any chance of success. The United States has given no indication that such aid would be forthcoming.

Nationalist officials in Taipei received Washington and London reports of the Red buildup with outward calm.

Chinese Nationalist military commanders are confident they can withstand an all-out Communist assault on Quemoy, the larger of the two islands, even though it is flanked on three sides by the Chinese mainland.

Communist artillery fired 39 shells at Quemoy in an 85-minute period Thursday night. This was not unusual, however. The islands are much better defended today than in 1958 when the Communists made a determined but unsuccessful effort to crush them by artillery bombardment.

Unofficial sources in Formosa believe reports of restrictions on civilian rail travel in South China might have erroneously contributed to the conclusion that extensive military movements are under way. They said it is possible the Chinese Communists are making large-scale shifts of urban populations to rural areas in an attempt to speed up farm production.

But Hong Kong intelligence sources confirmed that the Chinese Communists are moving more planes and troops into the Fukien coastal area. Other sources indicated that the Communist military has taken over almost all railway facilities in Fukien and neighboring areas.

Private Hargrove Continues To Battle against Top Brass

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twenty years later, Private Hargrove is still battling the brass.

The difference is that his adversaries are not the top brass and shavetails from whom he extracted his wartime best seller, "See Here, Private Hargrove."

Now he is contending with the production minds of the Hollywood studios. It is obvious that as one of the town's most in-demand comedy writers, his pay is somewhat different this time.

Hargrove appears to have prospered in spite of his refusal to buckle under the Hollywood system. But he admitted in his cozy Universal office that it sometimes pays to be cautious.

"Most of the time I am writing satire," he explained, "but the trick is never to tell the producers that it is satire. That would scare them."

Hargrove came here in 1955 to research and write a comedy about the peacetime army. "The Girl He Left Behind," for Warner Brothers. He persuaded the studio to let him write the yarn as a book while a script writer followed a few pages behind, turning it into a scenario. Hargrove's hilarious passages came out serious in the script; Hollywood was on a drama kick.

Artery Obstructions To Be Studied by Clinic

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Clinic Foundation has received a $258,000 grant to develop techniques and equipment for locating and removing possibly fatal obstructions in human arteries. It was announced Friday.

The grant from the John A. Hartford Foundation, Inc., will be used principally to further the work of Dr. F. Mason Sones Jr. in developing new arterial photography techniques and instruments for removal of obstructions.

While waiting for the studios to come over to comedy, Hargrove turned out a pack of television Westerns — "the way Westerns should be written," that is, funny. His "Mavericks" were pure satire but no one admitted it out loud.

Hollywood finally found out that comedies sell, and he was in demand for features. He converted "Music Man" to films and had his sport with bossman J. L. Warner doing so.

Hargrove did an adaptation for the Kim Novak comedy, "Boy's Night Out," but battled with the director. "I had to apologize for calling him a frustrated writer," Hargrove recalled. "I told him it was his writer who was the frustrated writer."

Couldn't Hargrove get a book out of Hollywood, as he did with the Army? "No," he said. "Too fantastic."

Cholesterol Curb Found by Science

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Imperial Chemical Industries reported today it has developed a drug that controls the concentration in the blood of such fatty substances as cholesterol.

The announcement said the drug—atomid—was a major advance in the treatment of arteriosclerosis. It said the drug will not be available generally for prescription until completion of extensive clinical trials now going on in Britain, the United States, Canada and eight other countries.

Miss Carolyn Smith Wed To Mr. George M. Weller

MRS. GEORGE M. WELLER

Miss Carolyn Sue Smith, foster daughter of Mrs. Emma Essick, 223 Walnut St., and Mr. George Malcolm Weller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Weller, 165 E. High St., were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony Sunday at the Trinity Lutheran Church.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring service before an altar decorated with white asters, stock, green fern and foliage. Aisle pews were enhanced with white lace bells and bows accented with lily-of-the-valley.

Pre-nuptial music was presented on the church organ by Miss Cheryl Mumaw. Miss Martha Samuel was vocalist.

Given in marriage by her foster mother, the bride wore a gown of net and tulle designed with a Sabrina neckline outlined with pearls and sequins and long sleeves that tapered gracefully over the hands into points.

The bouffant skirt, trimmed with clusters of pearls and sequins, extended into a chapel train. Her veil of illusion was caught to a crown of pearls and sequins and she carried a white Bible topped with white carnations and strands of ivy and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a simulated diamond pendant, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Sandra Clark was matron of honor, Miss Sandra Kay Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Doris Vanhose was bridesmaid. The attendants wore identical dresses of light blue satin brocade with tiers of lace highlighting the bell-shaped skirts. Each wore a veiled circlet to complement their ensembles and they carried pink carnations and foliage.

Gwendolyn Eitel and Marcia Mills were the flower girls. They wore pink nylon dresses with matching hats and carried baskets of rose petals.

Mr. Melvin Struckman served as best man and Mr. Jack Mills and Mr. David Hammel were ushers.

The bride's foster mother, Mrs. Essick, wore a blue printed dacron dress with white accessories and her corsage was pink carnations.

Mrs. Weller, the bridegroom's mother, wore a navy blue voile dress with white accessories and her corsage was pink carnations. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the parish house. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake. Candles and rosebuds added to the beautiful decorations.

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. Reba Jones, Mrs. Francis Cupp, Mrs. Patty Eitel and Miss Phyllis Cupp.

The new Mrs. Weller wore a white dress with blue trim, white accessories and the flowers from her bridal bouquet when the couple left for a wedding trip.

They will reside at 230 E. Union St.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School.

Mr. Weller is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed at The Herald.

Out-of-town-guests at the wedding were from Mount Vernon, Dayton and Columbus.

Musial Sets Another Mark In Total Bases

Ty Cobb Record Falls As Cardinals Split Pair with Phillies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan (The Man) Musial, 41-year-old St. Louis Cardinal great, established another in his long list of records Friday night, lashing a home run and three singles to surpass Ty Cobb's major league record of 5,863 career total bases.

It was the fourth major career standard established by the personable outfielder this season. He previously topped the National League records held by the late Honus Wagner for hits (3,430) and games (2,785) and by Mel Ott for runs (1,859).

Musial's four hits in St. Louis' split of a doubleheader with Philadelphia raised his batting average to .345, best in the league. His total base count now stands at 5,866. Babe Ruth is third on the all time list with 5,793.

Musial's second inning homer, his eighth of the season, triggered a six-run inning that brought the Cardinals a 7-3 victory in the opener, but the Phils came back for an 11-3 verdict in the night-cap.

In the others, New York and Houston split a pair, Met lefty Al Jackson throwing a one-hit 2-0 shutout in the opener and the Colts romping 16-3 in the second. Cincinnati fought off a Los Angeles ninth-inning rally and beat the Dodgers 4-3. The Dodgers remained 2½ games in front of San Francisco, however, which was the victim of a ninth-inning Milwaukee rally that brought the Braves an 11-9 decision. Pittsburgh beat Chicago 7-5.

In the American League, Minnesota reclaimed second place with a sweep over Los Angeles, 3-2 and 8-3. Cleveland stopped Washington 6-2. New York, with Mickey Mantle starting for the first time in a month, fell before Detroit 7-5. Boston and Baltimore split a pair, the Red Sox taking the first 2-1 in 10 innings, the Orioles the second 4-3; and Chicago beat Kansas City 5-1.

The Mets' Jackson, a lefty, allowed only a single to Joe Amalfitano and a walk in the first inning before settling down to his near-perfect performance. He retired 22 in order before walking the lead-off man in the ninth. Jackson (4-8) struck out nine in the first complete game one-hitter of the season.

Jim Golden (5-4) tossed a seven hitter, contributed two triples and got the benefit of a 17-hit attack in leading the Colts second game rout.

Cincinnati's Bob Purky (13-1) shut out Los Angeles on four hits before he had to leave the game with a muscle spasm in his back in the eighth. The Dodgers promptly hopped on three relief men for a three-run rally in the ninth, but Ted Willis finally saved it for the Reds.

Milwaukee rallied for three runs in the ninth, the last two on Lee Maye's single, to outlast the Giants in a see-saw battle that lasted four hours and two minutes.

Dick Groat drove in two runs with a single and double and scored two more as the Pirates overcame a 4-3 deficit against the Cubs. Bob Skinner had a two run homer for the Pirates.

Archer Is Favored In Gonzales Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite a 16 months absence from the ring, undefeated Joey Archer has been made a 7-5 favorite over Puerto Rican-born Jose Gonzalez in their television fight at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The New York middleweights will meet in the top 10 - rounder (ABC TV 9 p.m., EST) of a card that has two other 10-rounders. Archer, 24, had won all 30 of his pro fights when he decided to go into another business. But the offer to meet the free-swinging Gonzalez lured the boxer back to the ring. Gonzalez, 22, has a 20-6-1 won-lost-draw record.

EVERYBODY'S BOATING
By Frank Kuchichuk, Central Press Writer

OUTBOARDERS have always experienced the frustration of not being able to test the running condition of their motor in their own backyard. During a spring tuneup the boater had to take his rig to the nearest body of water before he could start his motor—outboards are water cooled and need plenty of it.
Some boaters have copied the marine dealer by using a 100-gallon barrel-test tank half filled with water, and placing their motor in it. But this still means taking the motor off the boat to test run it.
Now this problem has been solved with a little gadget that sells for less than $5, with models for all makes, the Flushtette. Tempo Products of Cleveland, Ohio, developed the Flushtette. It snaps onto the water intake of the motor, a garden hose is threaded into place, and a steady flow of water is turned on. Thus dry land checking of the motor is possible.
Boaters in salt water areas have found this a boon in flushing the motor of corrosion. Best part is, the Flushtette needs no tools to connect or disconnect it.

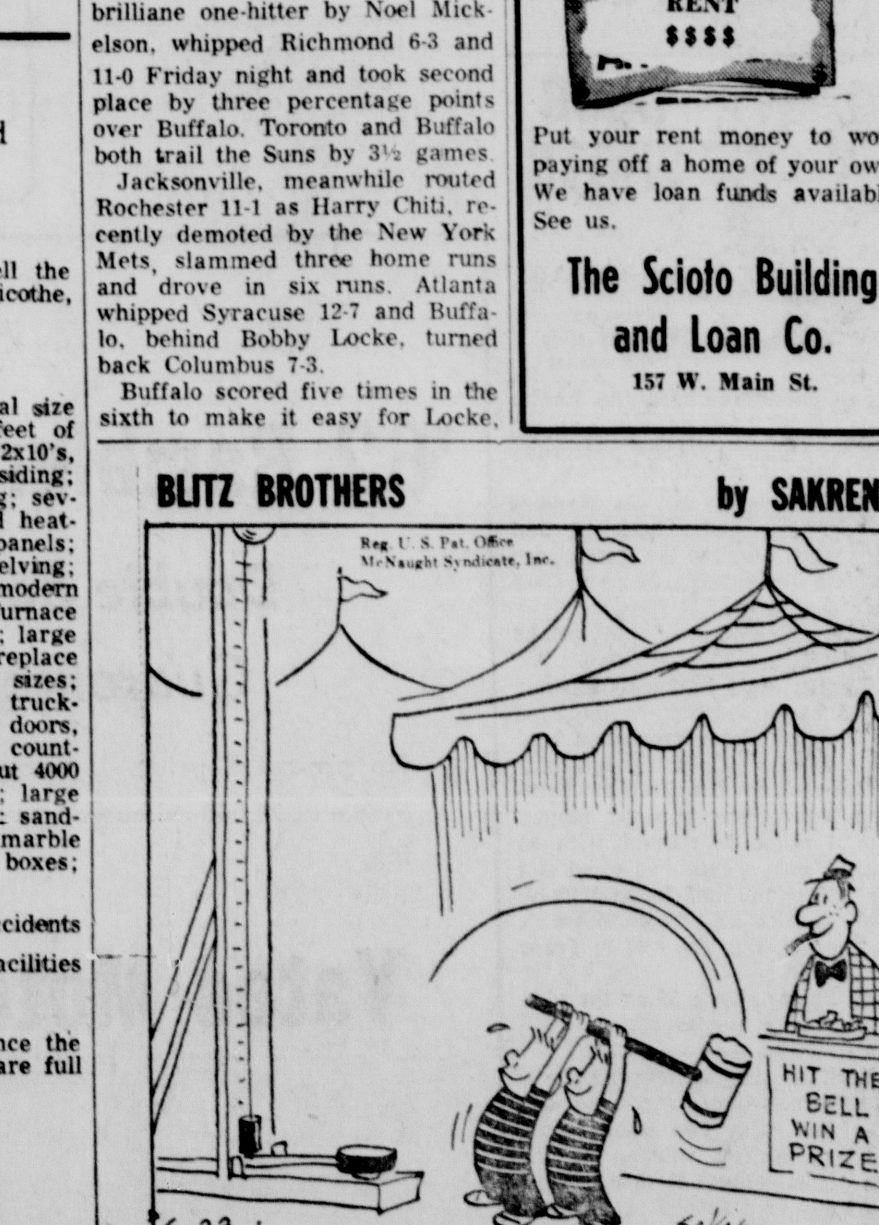

LEADING THE WAY - - - By Alan Maver

Toronto Wins Double Header
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pitching has moved Charlie Drensen's Toronto Maple Leafs back into the top challenger's position to Jacksonville's Suns in the International Baseball League race.
The Leafs, behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Ridzik and a brilliant one-hitter by Noel Mickelson, whipped Richmond 6-3 and 11-0 Friday night and took second place by three percentage points over Buffalo. Toronto and Buffalo both trail the Suns by 3 1/2 games.
Jacksonville, meanwhile routed Rochester 11-1 as Harry Chiti, recently demoted by the New York Mets, slammed three home runs and drove in six runs. Atlanta whipped Syracuse 12-7 and Buffalo behind Bobby Locke, turned back Columbus 7-3.
Buffalo scored five times in the sixth to make it easy for Locke, who gave up a two-run homer to Tony Asaro and a solo homer to Larry Elliot.

Oberlin Boy Wins Mid-Am Golf Crown

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Big Bob Bourne of Oberlin holds the Mid-American Junior Match Play Golf Championship after one of the most turnabout finals in the event's history.

The 18-year-old blonde, six feet tall and weighing 210, overcame a three-hole deficit Friday at the end of 18 holes with a par-breaking spree which gave him a 4 and 3 conquest over 16-year-old Jim Baske of Benton Harbor, Mich.

The 145-pound Wolverine paraded around the Possum Run course in even par 71 as he built up his three-hole edge on the morning round. But the tables turned after the luncheon intermission. Baske bogied three of the first four holes and Bourne won all three to get even.

Both birdied the 456-yard fifth hole, then Bourne went 3 up by taking the next three holes with two pars and a birdie. He closed it out by paring the 32nd hole to go 4 up and halving the 33rd. Bourne became the No. 1 choice for next week's Ohio Golf Association junior championship at Canterbury County Club in Cleveland. That one is a 36-hole medal play race scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday.

Purkey Wins 13th, Fights Aching Back

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Purkey, biggest mystery of the year to National League hitters, was mystified himself today—and a little concerned—about a stabbing pain in his back.

The Cincinnati right-hander scored his 13th victory Friday night as the Reds muddled through a three-run Los Angeles rally in the ninth inning and beat the first-place Dodgers 4-3 before 42,266.

But the back pain became so severe it began to take Purkey's breath away and he had to leave the game after shutting out the Dodgers for seven innings and hitting a rally-starting double in the eighth.

For seven innings, Friday night's game was a superb pitching match between Purkey and left-hander Sandy Koufax. Purkey had given up only four hits and Koufax had shut out the Reds on two hits.

Then, with one out in the eighth, Purkey doubled and took third on a single by Chico Cardenas. Koufax fielded Zimmer's ball and threw wildly to the plate, letting Cardenas in with the second run.

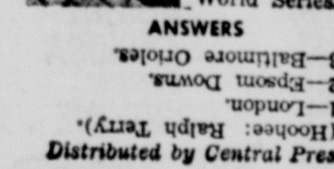

The Reds scored two more in the ninth. Hank Foiles, Marty Keough and reliever Bill Henry singled off Ron Perranoski and Cardenas brought in the fourth and deciding run with a sacrifice fly.

Oberlin Boy Wins Mid-Am Golf Crown

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Big Bob Bourne of Oberlin holds the Mid-American Junior Match Play Golf Championship after one of the most turnabout finals in the event's history.

The 18-year-old blonde, six feet tall and weighing 210, overcame a three-hole deficit Friday at the end of 18 holes with a par-breaking spree which gave him a 4 and 3 conquest over 16-year-old Jim Baske of Benton Harbor, Mich.

The 145-pound Wolverine paraded around the Pottsum Run course in even par 71 as he built up his three-hole edge on the morning round. But the tables turned after the luncheon intermission. Baske bogied three of the first four holes and Bourne won all three to get even.

Both birdied the 456-yard fifth hole, then Bourne went 3 up by taking the next three holes with two pars and a birdie. He closed it out by parring the 32nd hole to go 4 up and halving the 33rd. Bourne became the No. 1 choice for next week's Ohio Golf Association junior championship at Canterbury County Club in Cleveland. That one is a 36-hole medal play race scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday.

Scathing Criticism To Be Used in Ads

LONDON (AP) — Playwright William Douglas Home said today he planned to advertise his new play by featuring scathing criticisms heaped on it by London's drama critics.

"I'm all for putting up these bad notices, for there weren't any good ones," said the playwright brother of Britain's "foreign secretary," Lord Home.

He said he would use such caustic descriptions of his show "The Cigarette Girl," as:

"One of the worst plays I've ever seen."

"A total disaster."

"The most dismal and abysmal heap of rubbish to be mounted in London in living memory."

Girls Attend Aquatic School

Miss Phyllis McCoard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McCoard, 952 Circle Drive, and Miss Lois Burtner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burtner, Ashville, returned Wednesday after spending 10 days at a Red Cross sponsored training school.

The girls attended the Aquatic School at Camp Limberlost, La-Grange, Ind. They received a thorough course in First Aid and Water Safety.

Miss McCoard was a member of the staff, giving instruction in small craft and canoeing and camp waterfront leadership. She worked with Whit Craik of Louisville, Ky., rated the second greatest canoeing expert in the country.

She is to leave tomorrow for Lake George Camp, New York, where she will work the remainder of the summer as small craft director, canoeing and sailing.

Miss Burtner attended the school under the sponsorship of the Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter and received her instructorship in Swimming and Life Saving. She will work with the swimming program at the Ashville Pool for the remainder of the summer.

Gleason Says Return to TV Based on Need for 'Action'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why is Jackie Gleason taking yet another leap back into the television arena?

"Because I gotta be where the action is," he explains blithely. Where Gleason is, you'll find action. But he likes it in large doses, so he'll be returning to his old alma mater, CBS, with a Saturday night hour next season. And the 1963-64 season, too.

Right now he's calling it "Jackie Gleason's American Scene Magazine," but by any name it will be the familiar Gleason cast of characters.

"Sure, I'll have all the old characters back," he said, "but there'll be some changes. And some new ones, too."

"The honeycombs will be back. Art Carney will do the first show. I don't know about Audrey Meadows; she wants too much money. Personally I'd pay her all the money in the world, but the budget can't take what she's asking. So maybe we'll have to get a new Alice."

"Reggie Van Gleason will be with us, of course; couldn't get along without that boy. Also Joe the bartender. Only instead of just talking about the crazy characters in the bar, we'll show 'em."

"Lots of new characters will be on the show. One will be Oklahoma Idaho, the saddest cowboy in the West. Now that's getting pretty sad."

His aim for the show: "To take off on some of the sacred cows of America."

Admittedly, satire is a risk, he said: "You always hear from the pressure groups. If you do a comedy sketch about a dentist, you immediately get letters of protest from 20,000 dentists."

"But I figure if we aim our satire at everybody, nobody can get too mad at us."

Miss Janet Christy Receives MA Degree

In 1960 she received a scholarship to Strabourg University, France. For the past two years she has been teaching French at OSU under a graduate-assistantship.

Miss Christy recently accepted a position as French instructor at Otterbein College. She will begin her teaching duties there in September.

"DOWNTURN" INDICATED — Denying that he had predicted a recession in 1963, Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, points to a chart in Atlantic City, N. J., and says economic history indicates that a business "downturn" might occur next year.

Railroads Seek Strike, Union Says

CHICAGO (AP) — Angry union officials representing 200,000 trainmen have accused operators of the nation's railroads of trying to provoke a nation wide rail strike.

The accusations came after management representatives walked out of a negotiation meeting with union officials Friday. It was the second time rail-road operators had walked out of a bargaining session with the trainmen. The last walkout occurred May 11.

The break in bargaining arose over work rules the carriers consider featherbedding—calling for unnecessary jobs. The unions maintain the rules are a requisite for safe and efficient transportation.

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — Authorities blame an insect bomb for the death of Paul C. Murphy, 48, who was found dead Friday shortly after he sprayed his bedroom with the insecticide.

The Highland County coroner ruled this the cause of Murphy's death after tests showed a congestion of the spray in his lungs. The spray contains about 2 per cent DDT, he said.

Akron Cop-Killer Is Executed at 24

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A stocky young slayer whose life was marked by violence went to his death quietly Friday night—the 331th person to die in Ohio's electric chair.

James Rodney Buck, 24, convicted in the 1960 fatal shooting of an Akron policeman, spoke in a clear voice as he repeated the 23rd Psalm and Lord's Prayer after Ohio Penitentiary minister, the Rev. Clarence Swearingin.

Only after he had been strapped into the chair did Buck falter in repeating the phrases, but quickly said, "I'm sorry, Reverend, I didn't hear you." Buck never was able to repeat the phrase. He was pronounced dead at 8:11 p.m.

board's opinion that, in offering its services, both sides are required under terms of the Railway Labor Act to maintain the status quo.

But Boyd added that he could not go so far as to say that a strike now would be illegal.

He said the board has "no enforcement power" and added that it would be up to the courts to clarify the situation if the strike took place despite invoking the Railway Labor Act.

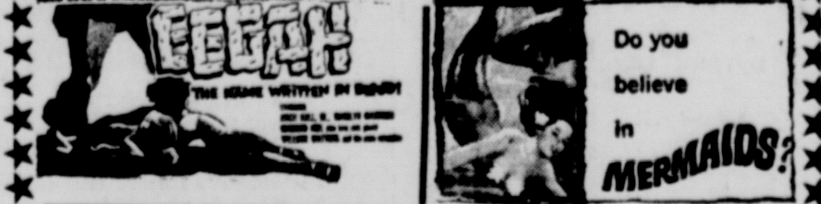

The board acted in the dispute under a section of the act which says the board "may proffer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time."

The heart of the dispute between the engineers and airlines, as well as the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL-CIO, is how to reduce the four-man jet cockpit crews to the three men recommended by a presidential advisory commission.

Neither the engineers nor the pilots union wants to lose a man.

The proposed TWA settlement provides that engineers would learn to become pilots through training given by the air lines and that engineers would be given preference over pilots for the third seat in the jet cockpit.

Dr. May was the president of the Pickaway County Medical Society when the plans were being formulated for the building of Berger Hospital.

He was born May 2, 1842 in Leaksville, North Carolina the son of Dr. John W. and Elizabeth May.

In 1868 he moved to Ross County where he taught school for a while. He graduated from the Cincinnati College of Medicine and Surgery in 1872 and moved to Burlingame, Kansas where he started practicing medicine.

On March 26, 1872, he married Mary Marvinia Holter of Bourneville. They had eight children.

Dr. May moved to New Holland in the spring of 1875 and practiced medicine there until his death on May 22, 1884.

Two days before his death, although totally blind and bedridden Dr. May diagnosed a patient's illness and prescribed medicine for him.

He was active in the medical societies at both Circleville and Washington C. H. and he frequently attended the state and national meetings.

NLRB's Offer

board's opinion that, in offering its services, both sides are required under terms of the Railway Labor Act to maintain the status quo.

But Boyd added that he could not go so far as to say that a strike now would be illegal.

He said the board has "no enforcement power" and added that it would be up to the courts to clarify the situation if the strike took place despite invoking the Railway Labor Act.

The board acted in the dispute under a section of the act which says the board "may proffer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time."

The heart of the dispute between the engineers and airlines, as well as the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL-CIO, is how to reduce the four-man jet cockpit crews to the three men recommended by a presidential advisory commission.

Neither the engineers nor the pilots union wants to lose a man. The proposed TWA settlement provides that engineers would learn to become pilots through training given by the air lines and that engineers would be given preference over pilots for the third seat in the jet cockpit.

Dr. John May would place his ear to a patient's chest to listen to the heart beat. He had to rely on personal observation and the symptoms described by the patient to diagnose illnesses.

His system of bookkeeping was unique — an accounts receivable record might read, "Man on John Smith's farm, deliver baby, $5". Frequently the "man on John Smith's farm" would never be heard from again.

Dr. May followed a family tradition in practicing medicine. His father was a doctor, as well as his uncle, a brother, a brother-in-law and a son-in-law. None of his children followed in his footsteps.

Akron Cop-Killer Is Executed at 24

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A stocky young slayer whose life was marked by violence went to his death quietly Friday night—the 31st person to die in Ohio's electric chair.

James Rodney Buck, 24, convicted in the 1960 fatal shooting of an Akron policeman, spoke in a clear voice as he repeated the 23rd Psalm and Lord's Prayer after Ohio Penitentiary minister, the Rev. Clarence Swearingen.

Only after he had been strapped into the chair did Buck falter in repeating the phrases, but quickly said, "I'm sorry, Reverend, I didn't hear you." Buck never was able to repeat the phrase. He was pronounced dead at 8:11 p.m.
